

SNOOK SENTENCED TO DEATH

Youthful Swiss Aviators Wing Way Across Atlantic

FLIERS EXPECT TO REACH NEW YORK TONIGHT

No Reports Received Since Plane Passed Azores.

WEATHER IDEAL
Pair are Youngest Ever Attempting Ocean Trip.

HORTA, Azores, Aug. 20.—(INS)—Oscar Kaeser and Kurt Luescher, young Swiss fliers hardly out of their teens, were believed to be speeding today across the Atlantic toward New York in their Farman monoplane "Young Switzerland."

Nothing more has been heard of the airmen since they circled over the village of Praia Victoria, on the island of Terceira, at 6 p. m. yesterday (3:30 p. m. New York Daylight Saving Time).

No indication was given that the fliers were experiencing any difficulty, and after swooping low over the village, their plane struck out on a straight westerly line over the ocean.

Weather conditions in the vicinity of the Azores were excellent, and there were no reports of heavy storms between here and the coast of America.

Kaeser and Luescher hopped off at Lisbon, Portugal, in the plane "Young Switzerland" at 2:30 a. m. yesterday, Portuguese time, or 2:20 a. m. New York Daylight Saving Time. Lisbon is 2,150 miles from St. Johns and 2,650 miles from this city.

The young Swiss said they hoped to reach Roosevelt Field, Long Island, just outside of New York city, some time Thursday night.

To Fight Costs Money.

Danger Our Freedom.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.
(Copyright, 1929, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Big, rich nations, having had all the war they want for the present, ask China and Russia not to fight. But China's border reports frequent clashes.

"Soviet troops repulsed by heavy artillery fire," and "Chinese garrison resisting with rifle fire and machine guns."

TROOPS and heavy artillery have been moved to the border on both sides. That means war among "higher civilized peoples."

RUSSIA and China, especially, would find it hard to finance a war. The great Chinese banker, educated at Harvard, T. V. Soong, who recently resigned as manager of Chinese financing, said he could provide for the army of 1,500,000 men $6,000,000 a month, but not $10,000,000 demanded.

THAT would make our wartime patriots laugh. They spent fifty times ten millions just getting ready to begin. And after they had spent 1,000 times ten millions they had nothing to show except airships that wouldn't fly and surplus ships costing a billion that the government can't give away. War is expensive when you're unprepared.

NAB "DRY" ON LIQUOR COUNT

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Whether dry is wet is a matter for court decision.

Some one phoned the Des-plaines street police that "This fellow Dry is all wet," and detectives went over to Albert Dry's place. There were insinuations that it was a beer flat. "I'm a dry," said Dry, "and this is a dry place. Anyone who says differently is all wet."

"Dry up," said the detective, dryly.

JAPAN HONORS BUILDERS OF GRAF ZEPPELIN

Commander Eckener Is Feted in Tokio.

RECEIVES CUP

Dirigible Will Leave For Los Angeles Thursday.

By JAMES R. YOUNG, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

TOKIO, Aug. 20.—Thrilled by the unprecedented exploit of the Graf Zeppelin, which has pioneered its way through alien skies more than half way round the world, Japan today paid honors and tribute to the masters who made the feat possible.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf and the guiding spirit of Germany's aeronautical progress, was feted throughout the day. He was personally congratulated by Premier Hamaguchi when he called at the prime minister's official residence to pay his respects.

Premier Hamaguchi, as well as all other Japanese notables from the imperial family down to the humblest clerks, are still marveling over the wonder-voyage of this mighty air cruiser. The prime minister talked with Dr. Eckener about the voyage, asking questions about certain phases of it.

The ministry of communications presented Dr. Eckener with a gold cup bearing the imperial crest. Silver cups were presented to 12 members of the crew in recognition of the government's tribute to the skill and daring which has made the flight possible.

The crowning glory of all will come tomorrow afternoon when Emperor Hirohito will give a tea party for 11 officers and passengers of the Graf.

The Zeppelin is due to leave on her trans-Pacific voyage to Los Angeles at 4 o'clock Thursday morning.

MIDLAND, Pa., Aug. 20.—Eugene Toss, 16, East Palestine, O., sustained injuries to his back yesterday when he fell from a swinging scaffold on the front of the borough building here to the sidewalk 10 feet below. He was removed to his home after being attended by Dr. J. A. Heffrich.

Toss, together with Iva Mercer, also of East Palestine, were cleaning the white front of the building when the former is believed to have lost his balance and fell. Lloyd W. Mercer is the contractor on the job.

CLEVELANDERS MAY REVOKE MANAGER PLAN

80,000 Electors Will Vote on New Charter.

INTEREST HIGH
Harry L. Davis Directs Amendment Campaign.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 20.—(INS.)—Acting as a jury on an attempt to kill the city manager plan of city government, Cleveland's voters went to the polls today to render a verdict on a charter amendment which would return to the city the old mayor-ward-council form of government.

The verdict which Cleveland's voters return today is of particular significance in the history of municipal governments. It is one that is being watched with keen interest in municipalities over the United States. A close vote of 80,000 is predicted for today's election.

A particularly heavy vote was reported at the election commissioner's office from scattered precincts early today, indicating civic interest over the election and the possibility of a heavier vote than had been expected. Early morning balloting swamped the election booths, causing hurried calls to be sent for aid to relieve the congested polls.

Whatever the decision of Cleveland's electorate today, it will be a virtually certain "death sentence" for one of the two types of municipal government for Cleveland. Of broader significance than this, it is regarded by students of municipal governments, as a test that will exert considerable influence on the futures of these two types of city administration.

Today's election climaxes months of embittered campaigning during which both the city manager plan and the mayor-ward-council system have been laid bare and attacked from every possible angle. People of every class of life have been drawn into the open to either condemn or praise.

Newspapers of the city have united to squelch the charter amendment while the proponents of the amendment—so-called remnants of Cleveland's politically-governed days—have called to their aid a strong political organization.

There is an element of uncertainty about the outcome of today's election due largely to the activities of the anti-amendment forces, who have built up an untold precinct organization to make a house-to-house canvass and to establish personal contact wherever possible. Amendment workers discount the effectiveness of such an organization, however.

Twice before during the six years of Cleveland's city manager administration, charter amendments won which would adopt the mayor-ward-council plan—one in 1927 and again in 1928. But the margins in those two previous elections were narrow. In both instances the city manager plan was saved from doom by strong voter organizations.

As was the case in the two previous amendment elections, this third campaign was directed by former Governor Harry L. Davis although the petitions for the amendment were circulated this time by S. S. Danaceau, attorney, and Edward T. Downer, Cleveland college registrar. These three men became the three-D's of the mayor-ward-council drive.

Considerable re-alignment has taken place among the city political forces over the amendment issue—factions have shifted and old party lines and differences have been broken or done away with entirely—making the election more interesting and its outcome more uncertain.

Justice of Peace Representative Admits Guilt at Hearing

BELLEFONTAINE, O., Aug. 20.—(INS.)—This city was agog with discussion today when the news was divulged that George Lanter had been fined $700 on liquor charges.

There would not have been so much talk, only George is a prohibition agent, working out of a justice of the peace court here. George, it was charged, had imbibed some of the product he spends so much time in confiscating. The agent possessed some liquor, too, it was alleged.

And George according to an affidavit, did not drive his automobile in conformity with traffic regulations. It struck two other cars while he was trying to manipulate it. The first little accident occurred when George's car struck

MAY ASK FOR NEW BIDS ON FIRE STATION

Council Urges Full Cellar Under Proposed Structure.

HOLD PARLEY

Sewer Matters Occupy Attention of Legislators.

Further delay in the erection of the proposed new Central fire station in St. Clair avenue and Broadway loomed probable today following last night's meeting of city council.

Claims Plans Changed
Councilman leaders were conferring with Service-Safety Director John Moore today relative to the plan of increasing the $60,000 bond issue, provided for the new building, in order to complete the structure according to the original plans. Another meeting of council will be held Thursday night when the matter of erecting the station house according to the original plans or completing it according to the revised plans will be determined.

Councilman A. C. Frost charged that the fire station plans had been changed by the service-safety director without approval of council. Moore, in defense of his action, charged that council had provided $60,000 for the improvement and that the structure and the adjoining Dickey property could not be provided for the figure. Councilman Fleming declared that Moore should have consulted council before making any change in the plans which the municipal legislative body approved. Councilman Lindell expressed the opinion that the building should be erected, omitting the proposed comfort station.

City Solicitor Hoover explained that 30 days must elapse for an ordinance providing for the issuance of temporary notes in anticipation of the bonds, would become effective and this would prevent completion of the station this year. He said that the contract for the fire station alone might be awarded and that the comfort station contract could be provided later.

Moore contended that the proposed changes provided mainly for elimination of a part of the basement and the substitution of a main floor for a composition floor on the second floor of the building. Bids are now being sought for the building according to the revised plans, these to be opened by the board of control on September 3. Approximately $10,000 more would be required to complete the building.

GIRL AVIATOR KILLED WHEN PLANE CRASHES

Body of Marvel Crossen Found in Arizona.

FIRST FATALITY

Victim Believed to Have Been Making Forced Landing.

WELTON, Ariz., Aug. 20.—(INS.)—Marvel Crossen, San Diego aviatix, was found dead today in her wrecked plane six miles due north of here.

Her body was crushed and broken. Indications were that she had met death in a forced landing. The left wing of her plane, in which she was en route to Phoenix from Yuma yesterday in the national air derby was crumpled from hitting a bank.

A parachute which she carried was unopened. Apparently the girl had no time to open it. Miss Crossen was the first to meet with disaster in the derby, although three other aviatrices had made forced landings yesterday but escaped injury.

Express Regret.
CLEVELAND, Aug. 20.—(INS.)—Deep regret was expressed here today by Cliff Henderson, managing director of the 1929 national air races, upon being informed by international news service of the tragic death of Marvel Crossen, San Diego aviatix, whose broken and crushed body was found in her wrecked plane near Welton, Ariz., early today.

Word of the accident had not been received here by officials of the air races. "The tragedy will not hinder or interfere with any part of the program, although Miss Crossen's absence from the races will be keenly felt among officials and entrants," Henderson said.

Miss Crossen was a contestant in the women's air derby from Santa Monica, Calif., to Cleveland which was held as a part of the program of the national air races here.

GIRL SLAYER WILL DIE ON NOVEMBER 29

Motion for New Trial Overruled by Judge.

REMAINS CALM

Court Rules That Murder Was "Surely Premeditated."

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 20.—(INS.)—Death in the electric chair on November 29 was the fate which was meted out today to Dr. James Howard Snook, convicted slayer of his illicit sweetheart, Miss Theora Hix.

No Trace of Emotion.
The death sentence was passed by Judge Henry L. Scarlett, in criminal court here, after he had overruled a motion for a new trial which had been argued by attorneys for Snook.

In overruling the petition for a second trial, Judge Scarlett declared Snook's contention during his defense had been "apparently false," adding that the murder was "surely premeditated." The court stated Snook's story was "inconsistent throughout," and that "there is nothing against Miss Hix's character." "She was not a pervert," he concluded.

Completing his address, Judge Scarlett called upon Dr. Snook to "please stand." "Have you anything to say?" the judge asked the defendant.

"No, sir, your honor!" Dr. Snook answered, in a husky voice. He stood erect and was calm and self-possessed. He did not bat an eyelash.

The crowd in the courtroom, about 10 rows deep, shored forward and Judge Scarlett was forced to rap for order. Spectators lined the walls.

"I sentence you to die on the 29th of November by means of electric current of sufficient intensity to pass through your body until you are dead," declared Judge Scarlett.

Snook, former 49-year-old Ohio State university professor, stoically heard the judgment of the court that he should "burn" at Ohio State penitentiary the day after Thanksgiving. He showed not the slightest trace of emotion.

He was as calm as he was during his recent trial when he never batted an eye as the fiendish murder of the young and beautiful co-ed, Miss Hix, was reenacted. Snook battered and slashed his paramour to death on a lonely rifle range on the outskirts of Columbus the night of June 13, leaving her horribly-mutilated body lying in the weeds.

The state's contention was that Snook hammered and knifed the girl when she repulsed his advances, after he had given her an alleged "love potion," which had not become effective.

State Submits Affidavits.
The jury adopted that contention, returning a verdict of guilty of first-degree murder after deliberating less than half an hour and by taking only one ballot.

DAVID BLYTHE CARVED STATUE OF LAFAYETTE

Former Local Pioneer Was Also Artist And Poet.

CIVIL WAR VET Family Settled on Pleasant Heights Tract.

Revered, respected and cordially admired by those of the few who knew him intimately and realized his worth as a citizen and genius, the memory of David Blythe, artist and poet, who once lived on Pleasant Heights, is still fragrant by reason of his accomplishments, evidences of which are to be found in certain East Liverpool homes, on a plot in Uniontown, Pa., and in sections of Pittsburgh, Pa., where finally he succumbed following a life that stamped him an unusual personage, one with keen perceptive powers and one with a code of ethics and morals that was unswayed by attempts at crass material gain.

Just a few days ago Mr. and Mrs. Heber H. Blythe of College street, this city, accompanied by their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Follansbee, of Steubenville, Ohio, visited Uniontown, Pa., where they again beheld the figure of the Marquis de Lafayette which he carved from wood and which for several decades has been annually painted as it remains in position before the court house of Fayette county in that city.

It is understood that David Blythe in addition to this figure of Lafayette made similar figures of General Nathaniel Greene, of General Anthony Wayne for the court house in Wayneburg, Pa., and one of George Washington for that in Washington, Pa. What ever became of the latter two is not now known.

David Blythe was a son of the late John and Susan Blythe, who were the parents of Andrew Blythe, who, in turn, was the father of Heber Blythe and the grandfather of Millard Blythe, also of this city.

The father of David and his brothers, John Blythe, with his wife and family of sons, emigrated to America from Perth, Scotland, about 1826.

Came Here on Raft. They came down the Ohio and Allegheny rivers on a raft and settled first on what is known as Kountz place below East Liverpool. Shortly afterwards he purchased what was later known as the old Blythe farm on the Lisbon road back of Pleasant Heights which place, until recently, when it was sold, has constantly remained in the Blythe family.

David Blythe was the youngest of these brothers and was born in this old homestead. He early indicated himself as a quiet, bookish and somewhat eccentric young man, for without any study in that direction whatsoever he had the unusual ability of being able to reproduce the likeness of any one by simply looking at one a while. Sometimes people would sit for him but whether they did or not he could execute a fine reproduction of them, when he elected to do so.

He was for a time in Pittsburgh, Pa., following his residence in Uniontown, Pa., and perhaps before living in the Fayette county seat. In the latter place he married. His wife died when it is said the event cast such a gloom over him that "the beauty and the worth" seemed to have departed out of life. He became careless in his dress and frequented his studio in that city to study, paint and brood.

Painted Landscape Sketches. For a time he was engaged in painting landscape sketches at which he was most proficient. He finished panoramic scenes of historic places on the National pike in Pennsylvania which were once shown for two days in the Uniontown court house. They were on a huge canvas which was unrolled, though some ten feet in height, from end to end. No one now knows what became of it.

During the Civil war he followed the Union army for a while in the hope of making similar sketches of the scenes that attended the struggle. He is said to have made a panoramic scene of the battle of Gettysburg. What became of them is also not now known.

He painted because it was his nature to paint. When he was located in Pittsburgh his portraits and scenes were ever on exhibition in the windows of Gillispie, the Wood street art dealer, who was glad to have them. Some times he would go to Mr. Gillispie for a dollar or a $5 bill but he would never accept more than were his immediate needs.

Once it is related that a wealthy man of the city arranged for unlimited credit for Mr. Blythe. He drew $1 on one day. None knew what for. He never accepted another cent from this fund.

A friend in Uniontown writing of him declares that he left that city in 1853 to return for several years to East Liverpool. He went to Pittsburgh at the breaking out of the Civil war. Many of his paintings accordingly are yet to be found in and about the Smoky City.

This writer declares that "in appearance David Blythe was tall and square with heavy eyebrows and a frowning expression of countenance when not engaged in conversation. His hair and beard were red. A photograph of him in the sixties represent him as a stern-visaged man and sour looking. He wore a long frock coat, very wide pants and large thick-soled boots.

In the home of Mr. and Mrs. Blythe on College street are paintings of his own parents John and Susan Blythe and granddaughters of H. H. Blythe. These attest his fine ability as an artist. Paintings of his are to be found in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Fisher of Pleasant Heights and elsewhere in the city, it is said.

Buried in East Liverpool. Mr. Blythe besides being an artist and a sculptor had the ability to write poetry. He contributed much to the newspapers of the day, ever signing the word, "Boots" to his contributions.

He was a stickler for originality and went so far as to stigmatize as colorless contributions to poetry albums of that day when the verses written in them were of someone else's composition. He would have been equally opposed to those now appearing on ubiquitous post cards.

He lived until about 1866 when he died in the Passavant hospital in Pittsburgh. His remains were brought to East Liverpool for burial.

Close Friend of William Bleakley. He was also remembered by the older inhabitants as having been a close friend of William Bleakley, the "contractor-potter-cowboy," as he was then known. The latter, old papers preserved in the Blythe family assert, was an uncompromising Democrat while the artist Blythe was an ardent Republican. Both withal were friends. The former was a brother of James Bleakley, a pioneer potter.

The figure which he made of Lafayette was executed in the best of Walnut wood. For over forty years it rested on the dome of the court house of Uniontown, Pa. When a new court house was built it was transferred to the lobby of it.

In 1924 it was removed to the outside where it has been placed on a pedestal in front of the county legal building. It is now painted a bronze color and really appears as a bronze figure.

His oldest brother Andrew married Miss Harriet Hill, a daughter of the late Sanford Hill, maker of the famous almanacs of his day and who has been characterized by the Rev. Dr. Donald MacLeod, of Boston, Mass., and former pastor of the First Presbyterian church here as "the greatest intellect which East Liverpool ever developed."

Sanford Hill was thus a grandfather of H. H. Blythe on his maternal side as he was of Attorney Walter E. and Captain Will Hill on the paternal side of their family.

'Owa-Ton-Na Surely A Blessing to Me,' Says Local Lady

Ten Years of Suffering Relieved by the Use of This Fine Old Indian Remedy.

A particularly interesting case where Owa-Ton-Na has proved its merits is that of Mrs. Lindy Tipton, Grant St., Newell, W. Va. She says: "It certainly is wonderful the way your Owa-Ton-Na cleaned up my system and made me feel so good. I got to the point where I felt completely run down when someone recommended Owa-Ton-Na to me."

"They felt so sure it would do me a lot of good that I decided to try it. Even from the first bottle I could notice a change. Constipation with which I had suffered for years is relieved. My stomach acted better, food didn't distress me as it had. My appetite improved and its remarkable how good things tasted. Kidneys, too, have caused me a great deal of trouble but it wasn't long until they started to show improvement."

Backaches disappeared. I don't have headaches for days at a time now like I used to. My nerves are greatly improved. I go to bed at

Building Friendship

Two new items of recent date point to a growth of amicable relations between France and the United States. One is the description of the dedication of Pershing Hall, Paris, and the other is an announcement that the French government, acting through the Palais de France corporation, will cause to be erected in the downtown district of New York, a magnificent edifice to be dedicated to the interests of French enterprise in the United States.

Little comment is needed on the dedication of Pershing Hall. Paul V. McNutt, national commander of the American Legion, officiated at the ceremonies and stated that the memorial was to be used as a gathering place for American veterans in Paris. General Pershing, deeply touched, replied that it should be opened to French veterans also. He said, "I believe that there soon will emanate from it a current friendship of those who in the war were justly the expense incurred and to be incurred in acquisition of Pershing."

The Palais de France promises to be one of the grand show places of the world, when it is finished. Its builders have considered enclosing it with glass. It will cost approximately 50 millions of dollars, will be 65 stories in height, and will be bounded by Broadway, Central Park West, and 63rd street.

Its lower floors will be turned over to the French consulate. Other departments in the building will be industrial and commercial offices, a department of fine arts, a tourist agency, and a hotel restaurant in the French style. Permanent exhibits will be maintained and it will be possible for the American merchant to select his goods without traveling to France.

No more powerful symbol of good will could be found than this inter-change of buildings. The Palais de France will be impressive, because of the vast scale on which it is planned; the Pershing memorial, because of its meaning to world unity will be of equal importance. Such enterprises will do more to cement international friendships than hundreds of treaties.

Railroad Records Being Made

Statistics covering 181 railroads representing 241,426 miles of line show that the class 1 railroads for the first six months of the present year established a new net operating income of $563,347,000, an increase of $101,192,000, or 21.88 per cent over the record for the corresponding period of 1928, which is taken by railroad experts as justification for the prediction that the net operating income of class 1 roads for the entire year will surpass the record earnings of $1,231,790,000 in 1926.

The gross operating revenues of the same roads for the first six months of this year are reported at $3,043,123,000, an increase of 5.2 per cent over those of the first half of last year, while the operating expenses were $2,245,814,000, an increase of 1.7 per cent over those of the first half of the preceding year.

No doubt there are quite a number of factors which figured in this splendid showing by the railroads, but it is hardly probable that any was more effective, if as effective, as the policy of the railroads which has brought about the retirement of old equipment, the railroads having retired this year up to July 1,632 locomotives and 48,025 freight cars, more than replacing them with 811 up-to-date locomotives, larger and more powerful than those abandoned, and 33,497 new and up-to-date freight cars.

It has been a long struggle, but the result can no longer be considered a matter of doubt. The railroads are well along the road to recovery, if that point has not already been reached, and this, too, despite the fact that traffic in recent years has increased far less rapidly than formerly.

Let The Verdict Alone

Desperate efforts are to be made to save Dr. James A. Snook from the electric chair. Every possible loophole will be explored in the hope that the verdict returned by a jury in less than an hour may be set aside and the life of this murderer saved.

For the first time in months a murderer has been condemned to death by a jury in Ohio. It came to the point where the public simply took it for granted that slayers like Snook merely had to plead emotionalism or something equally as futile, and presto a jury extended them mercy.

The jury in Franklin county which convicted Snook is entitled to the earnest consideration of the people of Ohio. Here were twelve fearless persons who heard the evidence, together with the judge's instructions and returned the verdict which nine-tenths of the public expected.

Of course it is to the credit of Snook's lawyers that they do all they can to beat the chair, but in the name of justice, if ever there was a deliberately planned and executed murder, after an illicit liaison which threatened to become public property and which was termed a "pleasant little arrangement" by the man who was responsible for it, that was the Snook affair. Respected men in the business of teaching the children of a state as great as Ohio, who stray from the path of rectitude and then seek to evade the fate they so richly deserve are entitled to little or no consideration other than the customary safeguards thrown about a killer by the law.

The Wisconsin plan to defy the constitution of the United States by having the state distill whisky and brew beer and go into the liquor business generally was defeated in the state senate by but three votes. Even a state given to wetness hesitates about carrying the defiance of our basic law thus far.

HASKIN LETTER DAILY

By Frederic J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 20.—So epidemic has become the American craze for individual supremacy in some unusual exploit that the phenomenon is attracting the attention of psychologists, to say nothing of philosophers. The latest outbreak to attract and exasperate attention is the carnival of juvenile flagpole sitting at Baltimore, where recently, eighteen boys and three girls, ranging in age from nine to sixteen years simultaneously sat upon flagpoles in an effort to break a record. The record was hung up on July 30 by Avon Foreman who perched on a 20-foot pole for ten days, ten hours, ten minutes, and ten seconds, an effort made to break the record of Shipwreck Kelley who had sat on a pole for ten days.

The best opinion explanation of the strange phenomenon is the existence of the machine age. For quite some years now there has been a steady trend toward standardization of all manner of human activity. The introduction of mass production into the American factory system was the genesis. Mass production resulted, necessarily, in the turning out of innumerable identical products. Stock articles became the rule. Everyone, almost, was dressed alike. Everyone drove an automobile of which there were thousands of duplicates. Chain stores all carried the same names and the same goods. The same movies were displayed all over the country. The people's work became mechanical, utterly routine. In a factory job or even in an office job, the worker would perform the same monotonous operation over and over again all day long. After work, he found the same monotony in the diversions offered.

This explanation is especially fortified by the outbreak of flagpole sitting by the youth of Baltimore. Baltimore, like all modern American cities, has its full share of standardized factories, shops, and offices. But it has one added touch, one additional feature, ever present to the gaze and peculiar to itself—its white doorsteps. No other city in the world can show a like phenomenon. For some reason, apparently forgotten if indeed an actual reason ever existed, the houses of Baltimore are usually built with a flight of white steps running up to the front door.

Of course no flag-pole sitter now living will ever break the record which has stood for 1478 years, the record of Simon Stylites. Although his record was established in the name of religious faith, there is every reason to believe that he, like the moderns, was actuated by a desire to outdo his neighbors. It was in the early days of Christianity when martyrdom was popular. Religious fanatics tried every way they could to individualize their martyrdom. Some wore no clothes, some girded themselves with iron belts with spikes turned inward, some lived on nothing but grass. Simon was the genius to whom the early counterpart of flag-pole sitting first occurred. He had many contemporary imitators—in fact at one time there was a whole army of aerial sitters near him. But none achieved his record of thirty consecutive years.

At the age of 26 he mounted to the top of a column ten feet high. He chained himself to it. Then he proceeded to sit. It was not long before he attracted attention even in that mountain, some forty miles from Antioch, which he had selected for the site of his vigil. At his instigation, his disciples gradually raised his column until it was sixty feet high.

During the latter part of his thirty years vigil, he received the homage of crowds of pilgrims. He was consulted by high officials on matters of church and state and his utterances, floating thinly down from above, were regarded as oracular.

For that matter when young Foreman was sitting on his Baltimore pole, Mayor Broening of the city came to his back yard and addressed him there. After his descent he gave the youngster a silver buckle and a letter commending his stamina. The pastor of the church whose Sunday school is attended by one of the other perching boys held services in the back yard beneath his pole. That boy must have been the time by reading the Bible. Another plays his violin. One of the girls is surrounded by boxes of cosmetics and practices making up. The pole on which one boy was sitting snapped and the lad broke a leg. Building inspectors then proceeded to visit and inspect the various poles, making those atop unstable ones descend. His Honor the Mayor darts from pole to pole making speeches of encouragement. The pole sitters have platforms rigged on their poles. One of the girls has a divan on hers. Another milestone on the pathway to civilization.

Write your question, your name, and your address clearly, and enclose two cents in coin or stamps for reply. Send to the East Liverpool Review Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q. What was the fastest type plane used during the war? What is the official speed record for airplanes? N. C.

A. About the fastest plane used during the World War was the Spad which had a Hispano-Suiza motor. The Hispano-Suiza motor is made in France. The most powerful motor used during the war was of about four hundred horsepower and they had twelve cylinders. The official speed record is 318 miles per hour, which was made by an Italian, Bernardi, in a Macchi (M-52) Fiat 51 Engine.

Q. What became of the Thomas A. Lincoln log cabin which was on exhibition at the Chicago World's Fair? M. E. W.

A. The Chicago Chamber of Commerce says that the Lincoln log cabin still stands on the Wooded Island in Jackson Park, Chicago.

Q. Why is the shore line of Lake Erie constantly changing? S. G.

A. Lake Erie is exceedingly shallow and the low clayey or sandy shores are liable to erosion by waves, created by severe storms which may wash from one place and deposit in another the sand with which the water is occasionally filled. The seeling renders continuous dredging necessary at every harbor on the lake west of Erie, Pennsylvania. There is also an annual fluctuation in the lake level, and heavy storms appearing when the lake is at its height, have a very drastic effect.

The aim of criticism is to distinguish what is essential in the work of a writer. It is the delight of a critic to praise; but praise is scarcely a part of his duty. What we ask of him is that he should find out for us more than we can find out for ourselves.—Symons.

Ritzy Rosalie

Rosalie didn't have a single thing to do this afternoon, so she decided to take a real, long walk. In this day of motor cars and street cars and elevated, surface and subway trains real walking is almost a novelty. Anyway, she is wearing a pair of new fall shoes, a grained leather with varied sizes of light specks scattered over the pebbled surface to resemble chinchilla. There are several other novelty grains in the fall lines, and Rosalie liked the horntoad, which is a shaded dark brown background, and the brown Shantung, resembling the silk fabric of this name with its heavy threads, and shaded to emphasize the uneven grain of the leather.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—A 15-story hotel for working girls is to be erected in the fashionable Sutton Place section—the third in a chain which stands as monuments to confidence in modern youth. It is heartening to record this confidence has never been misplaced.

The hotels are sponsored by the New York League of Girls Clubs, an organization founded 44 years ago by Miss Virginia Potter, niece of Bishop Potter, and other social workers. There are several thousand members, self-supporting young women with average weekly salaries of $30.

Miss Potter discovered many years ago the trouble which has vexed school novel and playwrighting materialists is not with the young modernists but with their suspicious elders who surround them with spying and foolish restrictions. She merely put them on their honor.

The first of the triad was the Irvin hotel, opened three years ago. The only rules for its patrons are callers should not be entertained in private rooms after midnight and every effort should be made not to disturb neighbors. There is absolute freedom in having boy and girl friends in private rooms.

Since the Irvin opened there has not been a single disturbing event, which should be a grand lesson to many snooty hotels employing prying house detectives to peek over the transoms and through the keyholes. Not one of the girls has ever been censured for coming in late, despite their youth and attractiveness.

The business men behind the experiment say the girls have proven a gilt edge investment, and they have not lost a single penny in an unpaid bill. The second hotel is the Virginia on East 12th street, opened a little more than a year ago with the same fine results.

The Sutton Place hotel will provide apartments for 312 women and will house the headquarters of the league, with class rooms, gymnasium, swimming pool, theater, library and social hall. No stock is sold, nor is any one asked to contribute. Capital gladly does the financing. There's another answer to what is wrong with the American girl.

The Thrill of America.

A playwright named O'Neill and another scribe named O'Malley announce that they are going abroad to live. That's all right with us. We have felt like doing it ourselves, at times. We are not above being provoked when the nation gets out of step with one or another of our transient moods. We have looked for greener fields beyond. The only reason we still are here is that we have not yet discovered another country in which a person can live, all things considered, as comfortably and as profitably, as helpfully and hopefully, as he can in the United States of America.

We may be a little prejudiced in this matter. Americans usually are, who have been actually or potentially in the United States long enough to get a thrill out of contemplating the vast political, social and economic experiment that has been going on in it for more than a century and a half, what that experiment already has accomplished for human freedom, what it promises for the future if the rules of the game are adhered to.

The United States would be better off if more of those who find life in it unduly restrained would emigrate to lands where their conception of happiness can be pursued without violating the law. They are a drain on its morale.

When individuals can't keep in step with their own nation they can't do better than to seek out another country where the going is more to their liking. Americans who prefer Europe to the United States are not doing the latter a kindness by remaining in it and grumbling. Their going will be noticed only by the census enumerators. The country they leave will be judged not by the hundreds it loses, but by the millions who already have fled to it from Old World repression and inequalities and the other millions who are knocking at its gates today. The thrill of America will continue to lighten the hopes of mankind.—Detroit Free Press.

Soviet Hospitality.
 The infinite pains taken by the Soviet bureau for the comfort of 100 unofficial American delegates may be variously interpreted. Cynics would say that the magnificent special train, the imported American coffee and cigars and the unfailing courtesy of all concerned are a diabolical plot to seduce the business men of America and bring them around to the support of political recognition of the communist government.

FEZENDA HAS COMEDY PART

Louise Fazenda, who plays the part of the lovely Sarah in "On With the Show," Warner Bros. first 100 per cent natural color, talking, singing, dancing Vitaphone picture, now at the State theater, occupies a niche all her own in the realm of motion pictures. She is universally recognized as the most successful leading comedienne.

Entering motion pictures in 1918 as an extra, Miss Fazenda soon attracted attention through her droll characterizations, with the result that her engagement followed as a member of the famous group of Mack Sennett artists, which included Charlie Chaplin, Gloria Swanson, Ford Sterling, Charlie Murray, Marie Prevost and others.

In 1921 and the year following, Miss Fazenda went into vaudeville for her only stage work, and after returning to Hollywood joined Warner Bros. as a comedienne, creating a succession of roles that soon resulted in her elevation to stardom.

In "On With the Show" Miss Fazenda appears in her fourth all-Vitaphone production, she having scored in an eccentric role in "The Terror," in "Stark Mad" and in "The Desert Song." Miss Fazenda is one screen artist with a following who has not only welcomed talking pictures, but has been welcomed in them, giving proof that she is even more popular on the audible screen than she was on the silent.

"BLACK WATCH" AT CERAMIC

David Percy, who combines concert appearance with screen work, as the son of one of the most famous physicians in New England.

He prepared at Stone School in Boston for Harvard University, but a suggestion from the famous opera singer, Emma Eames, that he study voice swerved him from having an M. D. attached to his name.

His father was opposed to his singing and the youth used to steal away and sing in the famous Russian Grill in Boston for his dinner.

He fooled the registration officials at the outbreak of the World War and enlisted, although he was only sixteen. Overseas Percy was the first American soldier to sing for the British wounded.

Currently he is playing an important role in "The Black Watch," the all-dialog Fox Movietone production starring Victor McLaglen and directed by John Ford. "The Black Watch" is being shown at the Ceramic theater today and tomorrow.

SOPHIE TUCKER HAS STAGE ROLE

An unusual feature of the great night club setting in Warner Bros. latest talking, singing Vitaphone production, "Honky Tonk," which introduces the famous Sophie Tucker as a film star now at the American theater, is an ascending stage on which the magnetic singer makes her entry to the floor of the cabaret.

Throngs of merry-makers dance—a bevy of choristers trip down the runways—others put on a dancing act—then from the far end of the club floor, rises a stage—bearing not only the astonishing Sophie Tucker but her accompanist, Ted Shapiro, seated at a grand piano.

Some of Sophie's songs are given from this platform, and for others she steps down into the middle of the floor, going back at the completion of the number and disappearing as the stage returns to its former level.

This stage is moved by hydraulic power, and is one of the most finished examples of stagecraft.

"Honky Tonk" was directed by Lloyd Bacon, and Miss Tucker's supporting cast includes George Duryea, Lila Lee, Audrey Ferris, Mahlon Hamilton and John T. Murray. Leslie S. Barrow did the original story, C. Graham Baker, the adaptation.

On the grounds of habitual drunkenness for over a period of three years and gross neglect of duty, Birdie Williams of Elkton R. F. D. was given a divorce from her husband, Frank Williams yesterday by Common Pleas Judge Lones. They were married at Lisbon May 1, 1907, and May 1, last, the petition of the plaintiff declared, Williams struck his wife and smashed her glasses.

Gross neglect of duty was charged in the divorce petition filed by Hazel M. Coffee against her husband, John C. Coffee, and a decree was obtained on this ground. The custody of a minor child was awarded the plaintiff. Coffee is to pay attorney fees for the plaintiff, and in addition $5 weekly for the support of the minor. Mrs. Coffee has also been awarded all household effects.

Three years' wilful absence was charged in the divorce petition filed by Murray K. Dawes against his wife Marion E. Dawes, whose whereabouts are unknown, and who easily obtained a divorce. The couple were married at Boston, Mass., Oct. 30, 1901.

The divorce action filed by Wilma G. McCague against her husband, Frank B. McCague, has been dismissed by the court on motion of the plaintiff, at her costs and without further record.

Judgment was entered against Mrs. Jones in common pleas court Monday on a cognovit note for $500, in favor of M. W. Beyer. At the time the judgment was taken, counsel was not aware that the defendant had been injured in a wreck. Mrs. Jones recently filed a petition for divorce in common pleas court against her husband.

GETS DAMAGES FROM LAUNDRY

The personal injury damage action filed by Carrie Reed, a minor, by her father and next friend against the Woodbine Laundry & Dry Cleaning company of East Liverpool has been adjusted out of court, and the plaintiff will receive $3,200.

There was a trial to the court and a directed verdict returned by a special jury ordered drawn by the court, and which consisted of court attaches, attorneys and former Sheriff George Wright who happened to be in the court room. A motion for a new trial was overruled by the court, and judgment entered on the verdict which was returned in open court.

ROGERS PRISONER ARMY DESERTER

Robert Dutcher, of near Rogers, now being held at the county jail for implication in three robberies at Rogers last Saturday morning, is now known to be a deserter from the United States army since June 20 last.

Dutcher is married and is the father of one child. He has been implicated in other troubles, and a secret indictment was recently returned against him for operating a motor vehicle without the consent of the owner. Dutcher first told his wife he had been "kicked" out of the army, but later informed her that he was a deserter.

Some say wear black, still others say brown or beige. After all, that really depends on the individual. Miriam Seegar (right) chooses black Elizabeth crepe for her draped skirt and circular cape, which lend graceful and liquid lines to the wearer. A touch of beige in the blouse and in the dusters on the black felt hat strike a note of individuality. Jean Arthur (left), on the other hand, finds brown and beige in the same crepe more suitable for her beauty. The hip-length coat of brown augments the beige frock.

STATE POLICE HUNT THIEVES

HARTFORD—(INS)—Connecticut's state constabulary has been on the watch for what seems to be an organized band of chicken thieves that has been riding throughout the state and taking foul by the hundreds at a time, departing without leaving even a footprint.

The raids were not confined to back roads. Bethany, on a main much-traveled road, lost several hundred in a night, and then the artists colony at Old Lyme felt the heavy hand of the intruder. Raids were made on chickens housed at most under open bed room windows without the owner being disturbed.

COALITION MAY
RULE SENATE
OVER TARIFF

Insurgent Republicans Declare War on Increased Tariff.

UP TO DEMS

G. O. P. Must Control
48 Votes to Enact
Measure.

By William K. Hutchinson,
International News Service Staff
Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Despite the overwhelming Republican victory at the polls last fall, the Democrat-Insurgent coalition seemed likely to usurp control of the senate during the pending battle over tariff revision.

The little group of Insurgent Republicans, who have fought successive Republican administrations on many important national issues, has declared war on the wholesale upward revision of protective tariff rates. So too have the Democratic tariff chieftains. The coalition of their forces in fighting the Republican bill has been suggested by both sides and negotiations have been undertaken to unite their ranks.

Depends On Democrats. Whether the coalition can overthrow Republican control of the senate will depend entirely upon the attitude of the ranks and file of Democratic senators. If the Democrats vote solidly against Republican ranks, the coalition will write the new tariff bill—so far as the senate is concerned. But that success appears impossible, because there are quite a number of Democrats in the senate, who believe in high Republican tariff protection because of their home industries.

When the senate comes to voting on the tariff, it will divide thusly—55 Republicans, 1 Farmer-Laborite and 29 Democrats, a total of but 95 senators due to the fact that Pennsylvania has but one sitting senator at present. In the Republican designation, there will be but 39 "regular" Republicans, with 7 outright Insurgents and 9 Independents.

To maintain control, the Republicans must hold 48 votes all the time, on all schedules and all rates. In numerous instances, they will win four or more Democratic votes as the Democrats have four out-spoken protectionists in their ranks and several others who may vote for high tariffs on industries in their own state. The outspoken protectionists are Senators Trammell and Fletcher, of Florida, and Broussard and Ransdell, of Louisiana.

Stand of Insurgents. With these Democratic allies, the administration forces still must hold five of the Independent Republicans in line to keep their tariff rates intact. These five must be won from a list including Borah of Ida., Couzens, of Mich., McNary, of Ore., Schall, of Minn., Jones, of Wash., Norbeck, of S. D., Sutting, of N. M., Howell, of Neb., and Johnson, of Cal.

The Insurgents are certain to align with the Democrats against Republican ranks. There are but seven "last ditch" Insurgents—Norris of Neb., their leader, Nye and Frazier, of N. D., LaFollette and Blaine, of Wis., Brookhart, of Iowa and McMaster, of S. D. Already, Norris and LaFollette have made overtures to the Democrats and these advances have been received warmly by Senator F. M. Simmons, of N. C., the Democratic tariff chief. So too does Senator Joe T. Robinson, of Ark., Democratic floor leader, look with favor on a tariff alliance.

So the task of Republican leaders will be to hold the Independents in line. In other words, the new tariff bill will be written by the side having the most able strategists. If the Democratic chieftains can keep their cohorts in line, the coalition will win; if the Republican leaders can hold their Independents intact, it will be a Republican bill.

Consequently, the speeches of Borah, Couzens, McNary, Schall, Jones, Norbeck, Cutting, Howell and Johnson will be of importance to both sides—so too the debates of Trammell, Fletcher, Broussard and Ransdell.

THREE ESCAPE
FROM MANSFIELD

MANSFIELD, O., Aug. 20.—(INS.)—A state-wide search is under way today for three prisoners who, unobserved by guards, walked away from the outer dormitory of the Ohio state reformatory late last night.

The escaped prisoners are: Harry Marvin, 22, sentenced from Hancock county, who was serving from one to 20 years for a stolen motor vehicle; Burt Marvin, 19, brother of Harry, sentenced on a similar charge. They lived at Findlay. The third one of the trio is Charles McCoy, Muskingum county, serving one to 20 years for auto stealing. He lived in Cambridge.

The three were trusty and lived in a dormitory located on part of the institutions grounds outside of the prison walls.

Snook Sentenced

The trial was one of the most sordid in the history of the country, the "love-nest" relations of the former professor and the co-ed being bared in most intimate and repulsive detail.

Prior to the sentencing of Dr. Snook, the state submitted two affidavits signed by Prosecutor John J. Chester, Jr., and Sheriff Harry Paul, denying that the demonstration on the part of the spectators in the courtroom at the conclusion of Chester's closing statement during the recent trial had been prearranged, as contended by the defense.

Attorney E. O. Ricketts, on behalf of the defense, renewed the motion for a continuance of the hearing relative to the motion for a new trial. Judge Scarlett overruled Ricketts who then declared: "We have no desire to argue the motion for a new trial."

May Delay Execution. It is doubtful whether Dr. Snook will be executed Nov. 29. His attorneys have announced they will carry the case "through the courts to the finish," and if they execute their announced intention, the electrocution is expected to be delayed until some time next year.

Mrs. Helen Snook, wife of the doomed man, was not in court today. She testified in behalf of her husband during the trial, however, and was in court when he was convicted.

Mrs. Snook testified that she had never heard of Theora Hix until after the girl's brutal murder. She had not known that the professor had maintained a "love nest" apartment where he and his sweetheart spent some of their time as Mr. and Mrs. Snook.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 20.—(INS.)—The motive which Dr. James Howard Snook, philosopher, college professor, gave for brutally slaying Miss Theora Hix, his "love-nest" sweetheart, was branded as false by Judge Henry L. Scarlett in court here today when he sentenced the man to die in the electric chair on November 29.

"The murder," said Judge Scarlett, "was surely premeditated. The evidence showed that Miss Hix's ear had been slashed with a knife and other marks on the body showed that Snook beat the girl after she had resisted the impulses of a drug and then calmly went about finishing her by slash and stab."

And while Melvin T. Hix, silver-haired father of the slain girl sat in the courtroom, Judge Scarlett paid a tribute to the character of the murdered co-ed.

"The story of Miss Hix's alleged unnatural relations with Dr. Snook was not supported by the evidence," continued the judge. "The court feels that the verdict of the jury was fully justified. The motive given by Dr. Snook from the witness stand was not supported by the evidence. His story was apparently false."

"Dr. Snook claimed that he had bruises from the alleged attack of Miss Hix. There were no marks shown until August 2. The bruises she might have made would not have lasted over four weeks."

"The fact that when Dr. Snook confessed he roared back and forth on a straight-backed chair and showed no signs of pain or discomfort points to the fallacy of his story."

"The story of what happened in his coupe at the life range on the night of June 13 is impossible in so small a car. The story throughout is inconsistent."

"There is nothing against Miss Hix's character, except Dr. Snook's own testimony. All the witnesses, even those of the defense, pictured her as a modest and retiring girl. She was not a pervert."

Judge Scarlett asserted the state disclosed the "real motive" for the killing of Miss Hix when it showed that she died resisting the former highly-respected member of the Ohio State university faculty.

Snook's admissions that Miss Hix had tried to "break off" with him several times was also damaging, the court said.

"Throughout Scarlett's address, Dr. Hix, father of the victim of Columbus' most brutal murder, leaned forward from his chair resting his slight body on a cane he carried.

Apparently he was moved deeply. As soon as the sentence was passed he slipped from the packed hall of justice, into an ante-room.

Since the news of the murder was heralded across the country, Dr. Hix has remained in Columbus, waiting patiently to hear what he heard today—the death knell for Dr. James Howard Snook.

PRESIDENT TO RETAIN POWER
OVER TARIFFS

Republicans in Senate
Favor Flexible
Provision.

DISCUSS VALUES

"American Valuation Plan" Urged by Senator Reed.

WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON,
International News Service Staff
Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The president's far-reaching power to revise tariff rates under the flexible provision and the time-worn practice of assessing rates against the foreign valuation of imported articles will be retained in the new $700,000,000 tariff bill by the Republican membership of the senate finance committee, it was indicated today.

Majority of the committee Republicans apparently favored the flexible provision, although the new plan approved by the house probably will be modified. There appeared some disposition to change the house provision, giving the application of rates from the foreign valuation to the American valuation of imported articles. This particular feature of the house bill has been attacked as unconstitutional.

The question of valuations probably will be settled without much delay. Senator Reed (R) of Pennsylvania, has sponsored a plan to adopt a "United States valuation" while many industrial interests have argued for "American valuations." Under the "United States valuation," duties would be assessed against the American wholesale selling price of imported articles. The tariff commission already has prepared a translation of the new duties into rates based on United States valuation. The new duties were based on foreign valuations.

THREE KILLED
AT CROSSING

New York Central
Train Hits Auto
Near Bucyrus.

BUCYRUS, O., Aug. 20.—(INS.)—Three people, two of whom were residents of Pennsylvania, were recently killed when the auto in which they were riding was struck by a southbound New York Central passenger train at a crossing four miles west of here.

The dead are: Miss Lucretia Walcutt, 24, of this county.

Mrs. Blanche Seabold, 46, and her 15-year old daughter, Alma, of Easton, Pa.

Mrs. Seabold and her daughter were boarding at the Walcutt farm home, near here.

The trio was enroute to Marion, Ohio, where they had intended visiting the "show-place" tomb of former President Warren G. Harding.

Their car was carried more than 700 feet down the tracks by the train. The bodies, however, were not badly mangled.

It is not known who was driving the car. It was driven onto the tracks directly in front of the train. The engineer had no chance to avert the crash, he said in a statement to authorities.

Fliers Expect

Owing to the quiet manner in which the aviators prepared for their flight and in which they hoped off at Lisbon and the further fact that the enterprise was overshadowed by world interest in the globe-gridding voyage of the Graf Zeppelin, the two Swiss fliers received scant attention in the press.

Travel Via Halifax. Kaeser, who is well known in French aviation circles because of his flight from Switzerland to India-China and return, said that he and his companion would travel by way of Halifax. This news aroused considerable interest in the flight here and from dawn a watch was kept for the plane.

The aviators are using a Farman monoplane with a 230-horsepower Gnome Le Rhone Tital motor, capable of a speed of 105 miles an hour under satisfactory weather conditions.

Support of Portugal. LISBON, Aug. 20.—(INS.)—Portuguese authorities were watching with undisguised interest today the attempted flight of the monoplane "Young Switzerland" from Lisbon to America.

Oscar Kaeser and Kurt Luescher, the young aviators who are attempting the flight, have the sympathetic support of the Portuguese aviation authorities who cooperated in getting them started out across the Atlantic, and reports of their progress over the ocean were anxiously awaited.

Kaeser and Luescher are the youngest aviators ever to attempt a Transatlantic flight. Kaeser is only twenty-one years old, and his companion one year his senior.

Neither is experienced in navigation, but both are expert pilots, and before they started from the beach on the banks of the Tagus river they expressed utmost confidence in their ability to make the flight successfully.

FAIR FLIERS SPEED ACROSS COUNTRY IN AIR DERBY

EXREMELY important to flying will be today's proposed trial of the first all-metal dirigible, the XMC-2, made in Michigan for the navy.

The first experiments for an all-metal dirigible were made by Henry Ford, who has a machine for "sewing the metal," using metal for thread.

IF the dirigible remains permanently a factor in aviation, which it may do for slow freight in spite of its great wind resistance, the all-metal type undoubtedly will be used.

REQUIRING no separate gas compartment, it will weigh less than a dirigible made of cloth. Possibility of leaks in such a dirigible can be prevented, making expensive helium gas unnecessary. And it is believed such dirigibles will be lightning proof.

Increases of Two and

In June.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—(INS.)—A price increase of nearly 2 and 1/2 per cent over that of June 15 was shown by the retail food index issued by the department of labor today.

The increase of about 3 and 3/4 per cent over prices of the same date a year ago, and a rise of approximately 59 per cent since July 75 in 1913.

Price increases for articles during the month between June 15 and the same date in July were as follows:

Injury in Rail
Accident.

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 20.—(INS.)—More than 200 sleeping passengers escaped injury and possible death today when a Hocking Valley passenger train enroute from Columbus to Toledo was derailed by an automatic device before plunging through an open draw bridge into the Maumee river.

The device derailed the train just before it reached the bridge. County officials declared that many persons would have been drowned had the train gone into the river.

Engineer Albert Payne, Columbus, is said to have failed to observe the signals which were "red" against him. The report is being investigated by railroad officials.

Sewer Matters Discussed. Two petitions, one asking for a sanitary sewer and the other protesting against a sanitary sewer, were filed with council last night. One petition asks for a sewer in Monaca street between Boyce street and High street, 19 property holders signing the paper. The other petition, which carried five names, opposed a sewer in the alley between Mulberry street extension and High street. Both petitions were referred to the ordinance committee.

Legislation for the improvement of East Fourth street between Union and Market streets will be considered also at Thursday night's meeting. Solicitor Hoover having been directed to bring in the determining ordinance. The Newell Street Railway & Bridge company, Hoover reported, would bear its share of the improvement costs in exchange for a 25-year extension on their street car franchise in East Liverpool which plan council approved.

A. B. Pasco appeared before council urging the improvement of Brushton alley. He claimed that a petition for the improvement had been filed with council last year.

CHESTER LANDS 9-8 CONTEST FROM LAUGHLIN

Potters Protest Victory

Claim Attempted Bunt Should Have Been Infield Out.

In a weird scuffle which ended as the street lights flickered gaily through the gathering twilight at Newell park, the Chester News nine of the Inter-City circuit outlasted the Homer Laughlin team to capture a 9 to 8 decision in six innings.

The game was officially protested by Manager Joseph Dickey following a ruling on an attempted bunt by Springer in the sixth. The ball popped up off Springer's bat and dropped directly back of the hurler who had come to field the ball. Men were on first and second and the Newell club contended the hitter should have been automatically retired in an infield fly.

However Chester was ahead when hostilities came to a close at the end of the sixth and the game went on into the seventh. The visitors swatted in three runners in the first half of that inning and Umpire Cox called the game. The score reverted to the previous inning when the Chester-News were ahead, 9 to 8.

The game was a see-saw battle all the way. Chester led the first half of the first inning, scoring two runs. Laughlin then went ahead in their half, scoring four. Chester made one in the third and two in the fourth to regain the lead but Laughlin knotted it up at 5-5 in the last of the fourth. Chester wrestled the lead away again with a one-run attack in the first of the fifth but this slim margin didn't last long when Laughlin replied with a three-run onslaught in the same frame. But this game, apparently, wasn't one to be decided until the last man went out because the McMahon contingent circled the paths for three runs in the sixth and that put them one-up on the home nine.

Harry Simcox started on the slab for Chester but didn't get any farther than one-third of an inning. Watson and Jackson got walks off him and then four consecutive bingles rattled off the bats of Finley, Davis, Dignan and Bubba. Simcox gave way to Cox, the first baseman and the latter finished the game.

Lefty Baker made his first start in a couple of weeks for the Laughlins but he too was called off the mound, being supplanted in the fifth by Pollock, with one gone.

Pete Cebula led the Chester batting attack with three hits in four times up, including a single, triple and home run. Campbell also smashed a homer and this, combined with Peter's triple and Mike Cebula's single, gave the visitors their first three runs.

Frank Davis, out of the Community League, guarded the hot corner for the Laughlin nine last night and looked good in his first appearance with the Potters. He collected two hits in four trips up and handled three chances, one of which cut off a run at the plate.

Finley and Bubba led the Laughlin clubbers. Chappie got three, one a triple, in four times up. Bubba had a perfect day with three safe hits, last of which was a double, in three trips.

HE'LL FIGHT OHIOAN

Johny Dunn

Fistic fans throughout the tri-state district are anxious to witness Johny Dunn, clever New Kensington featherweight, in action Thursday night against Homer Roman, featherweight champion of Ohio, in the ten-round main bout of the bi-monthly boxing show at the Junction Park race track.

For several weeks Ray Foutts, matchmaker for the Junction club, has been endeavoring to sign the two for a bout in the Beaver Valley and finally succeeded last week after he was informed by the Pennsylvania State Boxing commission that the suspension of Dick Barnes, sensational Mexican fighter, whom Foutts had signed to fight Thursday evening, would be continued Ray was especially anxious to get Dunn, as he is the lad who defeated Jackie Rodgers, Pittsburgh's "Black Panther," upon two occasions, once in the main bout of an open-air show at New Kensington and again in a main bout at the Moose Temple, Pittsburgh.

In the latter bout, Johny dropped the colored flash for the count of nine in the first round and again for a count of three in the seventh frame.

Never knocked out, Dunn is young and eager to fight. Well educated and with the manner and bearing of Gene Tunney, his clever boxing and vicious punching make him a great favorite with every crowd before which he fights. He has defeated some of the best boxers of his weight in the light racket and is supremely confident that he will knock Roman out early in the bout carded for Thursday evening.

"BIG GAME"

Story of a girl who thought love more powerful than society.

By Vida Hurst

"Oh, darling, does it matter? She needs work so terribly."

"But, Mona, I wouldn't want to get her into the office if there is anything wrong."

"I don't see why. If she can do the work I should think that would be all that matters."

Bruce laughed.

"You're in dead earnest about it aren't you? See here, I'll be thinking about it. And will let you know if there is anything I can do."

"Thanks, old thing. If you could see her."

Suddenly it occurred to her that he had seen Rosalie dancing with her father. Would he remember?

"I've been working at the office all evening," Bruce continued. "We parted so violently last night I thought I'd better call and say goodnight."

"Oh, Bruce, as if an explanation of your call were necessary?"

"I took Mabel for a ride this afternoon," Mona said. "I think she's feeling better."

"I'm awfully sorry about it. Honestly, I forgot I had that dance."

In some way the image of Mabel had pushed between them. Mona wished she hadn't mentioned her. Yet there she was, swathed in chiffon as she had been that afternoon crying.

"I don't see how anyone can be so mean."

"She'll come out of it," comforted Mona. "Don't feel too badly."

"I feel like a brute," Bruce said. Silence, with Mona gripping the telephone to keep from crying.

"Well, good night, Mona!"

"Good night," she said.

Sweet, old Bruce! Bewildered and lost in his attempt to be a husband. Wondering why he was oversteering at fault. Sickened and discouraged by his repeated failures to please a wife no man living could have pleased.

Mona pictured the contrast if he were married to her.

What happiness she could give him! What peace! When he came home tired or worried, she would let him sit by the fire and read.

Not be "picking" at him over trifles! Mabel talked every moment Bruce was in the apartment.

If she wasn't nagging she was vivaciously relating the details of her day. Mona would offer him the gift of silence.

It was silence Bruce craved. She knew, because she loved him. . . .

At the same moment Bruce was sitting before a paper-strewn desk, dreading to go home.

The possibility of another scene sapped his courage. Unconsciously longing for sympathy, he had called Mona.

But the sound of her voice instead of soothing him had made him rebellious.

Why had he hazarded his whole future by marrying the wrong girl?

How could he have been so mistaken? Bruce did not enjoy his work in Minneapolis as he had in Chicago.

He missed the contracts to which he had been accustomed in the larger city. His mental perturbation and the increasing irritation of life with Mabel kept his nerves on edge.

He was rather sickeningly conscious that in time this would affect his ability.

Yet because he felt he must in some way be lacking or at fault, perhaps, because of his secret, reluctant, love for Mona, he considered himself more than ordinarily bound.

A failure as a husband he might be, but he would never desert a responsibility he had of his own accord undertaken.

Feeling physically and spiritually drained he locked the papers in his desk and started for home.

He found Mabel asleep. Her lashes lay heavily against her faintly colored skin. Her lips were parted. One hand snuggled beneath her cheek.

"Poor little thing," thought Bruce.

After all, marriage had been even more disillusioning to her.

He had often heard it jokingly said that the "first year was the hardest." Was it perhaps true that every couple had to pass through a period of adjustment and discontent? Perhaps if he would try very hard. . . . Forget Mona and devote every effort to pleasing his little wife. . . .

Softened and stirred as he had not been in weeks, Bruce leaned down to press his lips to the flush of her cheek.

Mabel's eyes flew open.

"Well, what's the idea? Waking me after I had finally succeeded in going to sleep? When you know what a hectic time I had last night, I should think you'd be more considerate. Honestly you're so selfish. I suppose it would simply never enter your head that I am exhausted. . . ."

"I didn't intend to wake you," Bruce said, all stiff and self-conscious again. "I'm sorry!"

"You would be sorry after it's too late. You do the weirdest things, then think if you say you're sorry that's all that's necessary."

Bruce retired to the dressing room but as it was impossible to close the door Mabel was still able to "carry on."

"I was talking to Mona today. She thinks I ought to change doctors. Dr. Morehouse is so old-fashioned. . . ."

"That's for you to decide."

"Well, I've got to do something. You know, Bruce, I'm not at all well. I feel so weak and funny."

And on and on into another restless, vitality-sapping night. . . .

The next morning Ellen informed Mona that her father had left for New York.

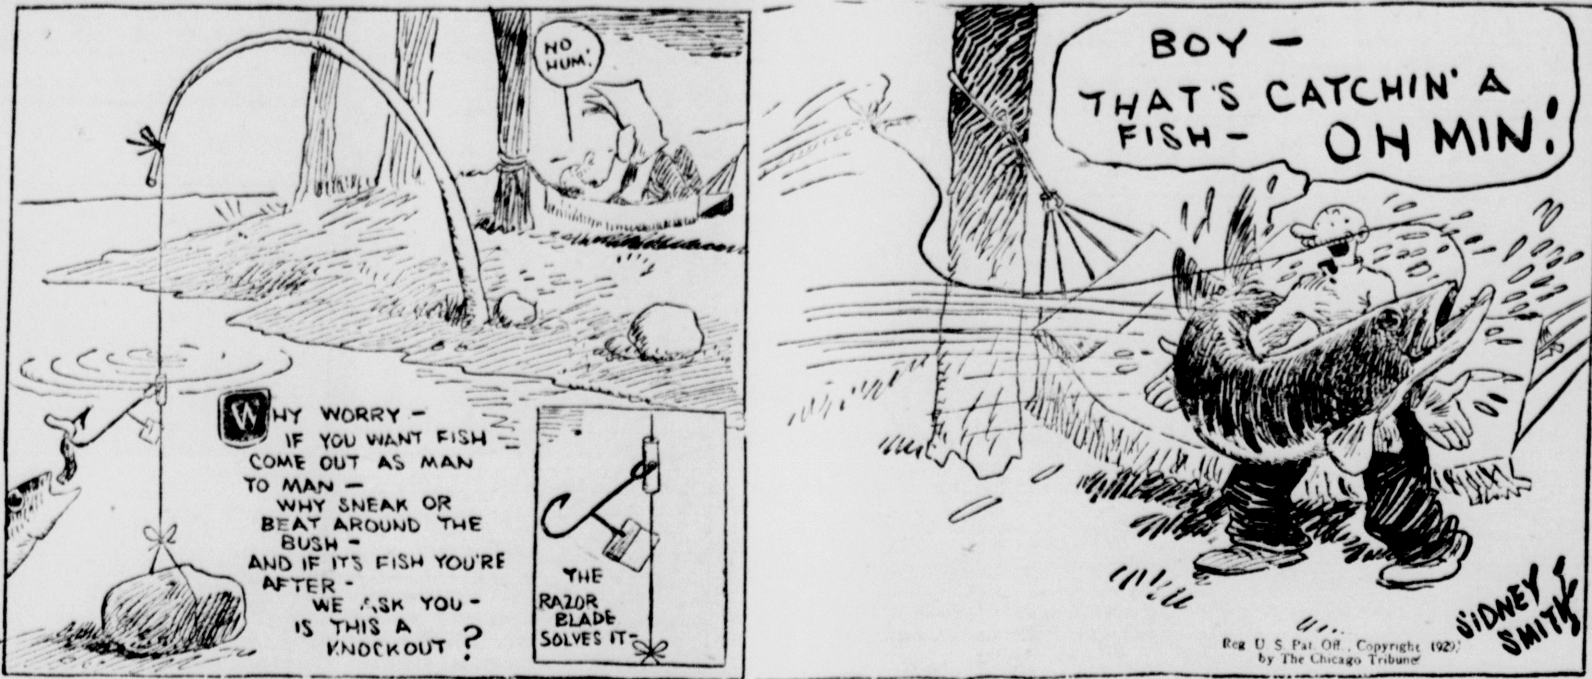

"Did you tell him, Ellen?"

"I did, Miss Mona. I considered it my duty."

"You would," the girl sighed.

Council Will Hear Filtration Report

Committee Will Likely Discuss Project at Tonight's Session of Solons; No New Improvements Planned Soon.

WELLSVILLE, O., Aug. 20.—Report of council's filtration committee, which for several months has been considering the various plans of the proposals, probably will be submitted to the lawmakers at tonight's session.

The committee has been meeting at regular intervals to discuss the proposal.

The purchase of the meter, one of the committee's recommendations which will determine the amount of water necessary to supply the city, is practically off the group's hands now and attention will be turned to the plant proper.

Inasmuch as the year is waning, it is not likely that any definite steps will be taken on improvement projects in the near future.

MOTHERS now learn value of MAGNESIA

Because it is so helpful in keeping babies and children healthy and happy, every mother should know about Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

This harmless, almost tasteless preparation is most effective in relieving those symptoms of babies and children generally caused by souring food in the little digestive tract, such as sour-belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, colic. As a mild laxative, it acts gently, but certainly, to open the little bowels in constipation, colds, children's diseases.

ROSS HOTEL 117 YEARS OLD

Old Highlandtown Hostelry Travelers' Mecca Years Ago.

An interesting dwelling place, ever noticed by those passing it daily while enroute to and from Sallenville, is the old Ross home or one time hotel at Highlandtown. It has for years been the dwelling place of the Ross brothers and sisters. Their forebears lived there before them. Before it stands a large catalpa tree and there is another of the same kind, and almost as large, just across the roadway. On the latter plot of ground is a large barn.

The house was originally built of brick which was made of clay that was procured some distance away on the farm on which the structure stands. The building was erected in 1812 when James Madison was president of the United States and exactly fourteen years after East Liverpool was initially settled by Thomas Fawcett, a Quaker-Irishman from Pennsylvania.

There are some twenty houses in all in Highlandtown and one of these is said to be as old, if not a year or two older, than the Ross house.

For many years before railroads were built in Columbiana county, traffic to the Ohio river from many sections, miles beyond Sallenville, was along the road passing through Highlandtown. It was ever the arrangement of many of these early shippers from various farms to make Highlandtown the end of the first day's journey to Wellsville. Then the travelers would put up at the home which had a store attached to it in those days and was in reality a tavern as well.

It was the further custom to go on to Wellsville early the next morning and there consummate the business at hand in time to start back and return to the place for the night.

In recent years the house had been added to by a frame addition. It is surrounded by trees and foliage. Before it is a long porch which has a distinctive appeal that is all its own.

For many years, it is said, it was the custom of Henry S. Goodwin of West Sixth street, East Liverpool, and his brother, the late George Goodwin, to walk to this home from Wellsville or some other point to which they would initially go on the latter's birthday. Having notified its occupants in advance, they would sit down to a specially prepared dinner whereupon after a bit of rest they would return again by foot to Wellsville and perhaps on occasion the entire distance to East Liverpool.

All in all the house is intriguing by its age and the halo attending it by reason of its long usage by early residents of Columbiana and adjacent counties.

DON'T WORRY ABOUT GETTING FAT FAMOUS LECTURER, ADVISES

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 20.—"Eat, diet and is wholly satisfied with the results."

Such is the refrain of a new "hymn of hunger" of Dr. Woods Hutchinson.

Hunger, according to this medical authority and lecturer, is a wonderful thing—

To satisfy it is still more wonderful.

People's stomachs were made to work for them—

In this iconoclastic manner he attacked the citadels of diet and the first of restraint in which, he says, folks have ensconced themselves because of the old puritanic assumption that whatever man enjoys is sinful and harmful to body and mind.

On the other hand, Samuel G. Blythe, noted writer and political authority, another Los Angeles visitor, has no love of adipose and is himself, an example of the fact that it can be fought successfully.
